MEETING THURSDAY NIGHT

Many "holes" exist in publication budget of Campbell Union (elementary) District

Approval of $15.1 million publication budget, still with a number of unanswered fiscal questions, is on the agenda for the Campbell Union (elementary) School District trustees at their Thursday, July 12, meeting at the district office.

Other items include; a request for recognition by United School Employees Association, local 1448; utilization of building fund monies, adoption of management salaries, and a request for released time for CETA officers.

The district office is located at 155 N. Third St. Meeting time is 7 p.m. Dr. A. O. Bachelor, district business manager, is expected to tell trustees that the district remains unaware of their actual cash monies. "Our situation is akin to you having a checking account into which money is deposited, but nobody tells you how much has been deposited in your account," Bachelor explained.

While SB 90 was supposed to make local school budgeting so easy that trustees could adopt their coming year's budget in March. Bachelor continued, "Actually, SB 90 should have been numbered SB 89¼ because there is a lot missing from it."

Trustees will also receive requests for improvement of school buildings and grounus totaling $195,000. The funds, if authorized, would come out of the building fund monies. Improvement of faculty rooms at Hazelwood, Rosemary and Sherman Oaks schools is requested, at a cost of $100,000.

Providing a safety surface under playground equipment would cost an additional $65,000 and materials and supplies to improve the sprinkler systems at Dover, Blackford, Moorpark, Forest Hill, Monroe and Hazelwood, would cost some $30,000, according to Bachelor's reports.

NOW SIX CENTS

You now must add six cents instead of the usual five cents to every dollar purchase of a taxable item since Sunday, July 1 -- or 6½ cents in the BART counties of Alameda, Contra Costa and San Francisco.

Effective July 1, 1973, the combined state and local sales and use tax rate went six per cent (6½ per cent in BART areas) as the result of recently enacted legislation.

Stephens gets the nod from school board

Picked from a field of 23 applicants, which was narrowed down to five finalists by a screening committee, Stephens will take over the position held by Adrian "Cib" Cibilich. The former principal will return to classroom teaching in the field of special education at Dover School this fall.

The new principal has been with the Campbell school system since 1951 when he joined the district as a teacher at Campbell Elementary School, In 1957-58 he served as vice-principal for Hamilton and Blackford schools. In 1959 he moved to Monroe School where he served as vice-principal and then in 1969 he took over the same duties at Rolling Hills.

JULY 11:

On this date in 1955, the U.S. Air Force Academy was dedicated at its temporary location, Lowry AFB, Colo., and the first class of 306 cadets was sworn in.

IN THE GUTTER

Some weeks ago, The Campbell Press, through a number of pictures, depicted the crosswalks on Campbell Avenue at Union Avenue.

That go nowhere.

Pedestrians going to the "PruneYard" either must plow across the parking strip or go down the gutter.

Other pictures in the same spread showed this same layout showed this big bush that has spread across the curb, forcing gutter-traveling pedestrians (There is no other way to travel?) farther into the street.

CAMPBELL ELEMENTARY

Food service department shows big gain for year

Campbell elementary school district has at least one hedge against inflation, trustees learned at last Thursday's meeting. The food service has over $60,000 in food and supplies tucked away for next year.

Ending balance for the food program was set at $11,869.99 for the month of May. According to Dr. A. O. Bachelor, business manager, indications are that the year-end balance will find the service well in the black, compared to the ending balance of $2 last year.

The $60,000 inventory, according to Bachelor, is some $15,000 over that of last year. Many of the staples and supplies on hand are expected to rise in cost over the next few months.

FUND

Trustees approved expenditures of $10,500 out of the district's building fund for three projects this year. $2,000 was earmarked for installing a ventilation system in the counseling office at Monroe School. According to Bachelor, total cost is expected to be much less since the district already may have much of the materials on hand.

Turf and sprinklers will be installed at Rolling Hills School at a cost of $3,500. Inter-classroom doors will be installed at Hamilton, Sherman Oaks and Moorpark schools. Total cost will be $5,000.

In other business trustees:

NOISE

Approved the final drawings and specifications for the Moorpark School noise abatement project. The firm of Higgins and Root, district architects, is handling the project which now goes to the Office of Architecture and Construction for approval.

A large wall was recently installed along the north end of the school grounds to help shut out noise from Highway 17 which is adjacent to the school.

Latest plans call for insulation of six classrooms and the administration building and installing individual air conditioning systems on the roofs of the buildings. The trustees approval of plans is subject to reaching a final agreement with the State Division of Highways.

Awarded a $18,398 reroofing bid to California Roofing Company. Repair work is scheduled for Blackford, Sherman Oaks, Lynhaven, Quito, Moorpark and Forest Hill schools. Closest second bid was $22,022.

LETTUCE

Heard a report on lettuce waste which the board requested earlier this year. Originally the board asked that three separate days be used in the survey to determine whether students were, in fact, using the increasingly expensive foodstuff.

Due to a lack of time the first survey was not conducted on May 28. Next survey date, June 1, had a change in the menu so that lettuce was not served. June 5 was the only date in which the study was carried out at the two schools. According to the report, 25 per cent was wasted at Hamilton School and 50 per cent at Marshall Lane.

Pearl Calabrese, food service manager, questioned the validity of the survey and pointed out three areas of concern. First, "this particular time of year is not conducive to the children sitting quietly (spring)," second, that food service staff feels the children are urged to consume their food rapidly and leave the lunchroom, and third, there has been no comparison made of waste of other foods.

While Bachelor said he felt the first two concerns would not necessarily invalidate the survey, he did concur with the final point.

Trustee Dr. Richard Mac Quiddy dismissed all three as irrelevant to the request made by the board and the information they hoped to receive.

RELOCATION

Opened bids on the relocation of portables. Only one bid was submitted by American Demolition and House Moving Company of San Jose. The bid was referred to district staff for recommendation.

Commission gets plans for cluster home development

Plans for a 53-unit cluster home development on property west of San Tomas Expressway, east of Darryl Drive and north of Hamilton, have been submitted to the Planning Commission by Small Holders Associates Real Estate, Inc. (SHARE).

The application is on the agenda for next Monday's meeting of the Planning Commission.

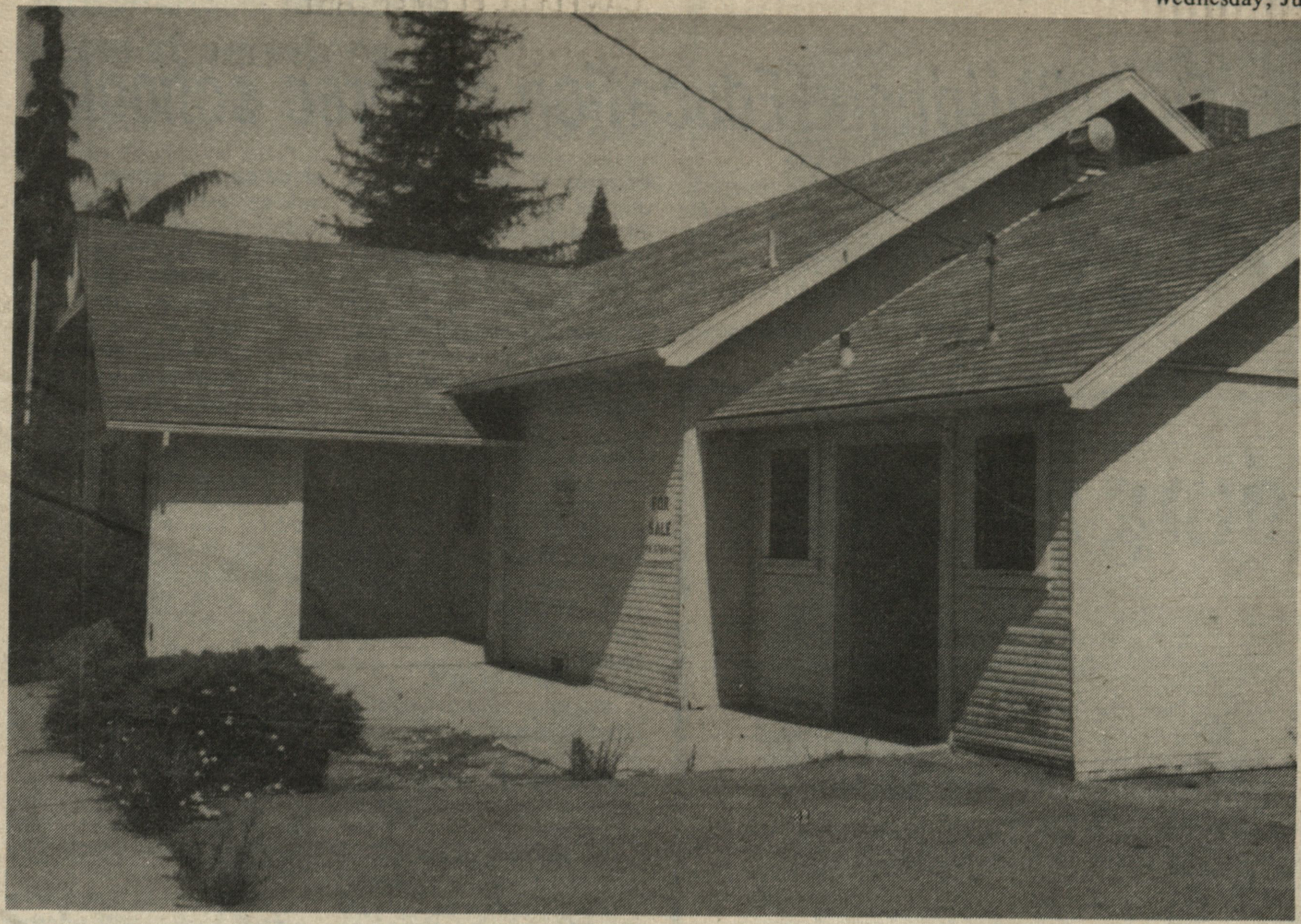
The Planning Commission is also scheduled to complete action on the request of Bell Savings for a free-standing pole sign at San Tomas Road and Campbell Avenue to replace the one of Freddie's Liquors at that location. Bell Savings has purchased Freddie's.

Other items on the agenda include plans of Darryl Berg for approval of plans for an office building at 1262 E. Hamilton and plans for Robert Zipse for an industrial building at 70 Cristich Lane.

Robert Plassmeyer is also requesting approval of plans for the conversion of a residence into an office at 2190 S. Bascom.

The Commission will also continue the series of other public hearings for amending the zoning map of the general plan.

Sherryl Kirk is also requesting approval of plans for an industrial building at 20 and 28 Railway Ave.



Use of old "Scout hall" causes Council concern

CENTER OF ATTENTION--After a lengthy discussion on Monday night, the City Council directed city staff and representatives of the West Valley Hiking Club to discuss the cost and other factors involved in the renting of the old engineering building (Grant and First), above, to the hiking club for offices and storage (above).

After the engineering department, which had occupied the building for 11 years, has moved into the city hall, the City Council, after finding no buyers, decided to demolish the building, sell the property and put the money in a community center fund. It was determined by Wally Byron, city building official, that it would cost about $50,000 to bring the building up to code and suitable for a meeting hall.

The Youth Commission and the JayCees had indicated interest in using the building but were stymied by the $50,000 estimate and backed off.

In the meantime, West Valley Hiking Club, which is about to be deposed by the city from a converted residence located on Hamilton, suggested that the building might be used for offices and storage only. It was determined that it would cost about $11,500 to prepare the building for that use.

The West Valley Hiking Club, which has in a short time become an active civic group, has won enthusiastic support for the many projects the group sponsors.

Although the councilmen agreed that the West Valley Hiking Club was a worthwhile organization and deserving of support, they did not entirely agree that the club should get the building.

Councilman Rusty Hammer felt that under the new estimate ($11,500 as opposed to $50,000) the Youth Commission and JayCees should have a chance to look it over. Councilman Bill Podgorsek suggested that the Chamber of Commerce should be able to find the club a suitable spot in town at about the same rent ($200 per month) that the club was now paying.

Councilman Ralph Doetsch moved that the West Valley Hiking Club should be given a one-year use of the building.

But Doetsch withdrew his motion when City Manager Bob Stephens pointed out that it first should be determined who was to pay for getting the building in shape.

Doetsch then moved that the staff and club officers should get together to arrive at an understanding, before the next meeting. Although Mayor Dean Chamberlin had to relinquish the gavel to get a second, the motion passed unanimously.

A motion by Hammer that other civic organizations be given the same opportunity as the hiking club when costs were determined, failed to get a second.

BY ANOTHER 3-2 VOTE

Gold Key gets freeway sign as Council does reverse act

By a 3-2 vote, the same slim margin by which the same sign had been rejected two weeks ago, the City Council on Monday night approved a modified version of the sign requested by Gold Key for the freeway side of the huge furniture outlet complex at Hamilton and Salmar.

But while two weeks ago it took seven motions (six of 'em losing via the 3-2 route) before the motion to reject the sign squeezed by, it took only three on Monday night to settle the matter for the evening anyway.

The first motion, which was passed by the 3-2 margin, was for reconsideration of the previous rejection.

Mayor Dean Chamberlin explained that reconsideration was possible, provided that one of those who voted for rejection made the motion. The request for reconsideration had been made by Pettibone Signs, as well as Gold Key. They claimed that neither had been represented at the previous hearing through a mutual misunderstanding.

Councilman Rusty Hammer obliged by moving for reconsideration and Councilman Ralph Doetsch seconded it. It was passed 3-2 with Chamberlin voting with them.

Vice-Mayor Norm Paul and Councilman Bill Podgorsek opposed the reconsideration.

After a lengthy discussion, involving whether the sign requested was for advertising or identification and whether any "hardship" had been proved, a motion to reject was made by Paul and seconded by Podgorsek.

Making a plea for the sign with eight foot letters and with the word "Furniture" on the second line was Mark Pettibone of the sign company, although some confusion developed over whether just the "logo" was desired or the words "Gold Key."

The motion to reject lost 3-2 with Chamberlin, Doetsch and Hammer lined up against Paul and Podgorsek.

Hammer then moved to approve the sign with the reduced letters and without the word "furniture" but with the stipulation that the sign would be removed, if the adjacent property was ever improved. The motion passed 3-2.

Much to the consternation of the councilmen and as an anti-climax to the sign activities for the evening, was the statement by Pettibone that he already had filed a new application.

Mayor Chamberlin then carefully reviewed what had taken place and suggested that the application be withdrawn.

OVER PREVIOUS YEAR

Building permits for six months show big increase

Building permits issued in Campbell for the first six-months of 1973 total $9.6 million, according to Wally Byron, city building official, an increase of $1.8 million over the same period in 1972, when the total topped $7.7 million.

Byron said that permits issued in June came to $774,478 (as compared to $187,557 in the same month in 1972) and of this amount $379,796 represented alterations and additions of present structures.

Heading the alteration list was the permit issued to Richard S. Millen for "The Factory," the former Sunsweet operation on Central Avenue, for $300,000.

The biggest single building permit was taken out by Dell Associates for $359,100 for an industrial building at 1190 Dell Ave. The only other permit for a new building went to Elwood Eberhardt for an industrial building at 103 Dillon Ave.

Two permits involved remodeling of buildings in the Hamilton Plaza Shopping Center. One was issued to Consumers Distributor at 1654 S. Bascom for $30,000 and the other to Angel's at 1750 S. Bascom for $9,675.

There were four permits issued for swimming pools during June for $14,300, making a total of 27 for the year to date for $109,118.

Permits for five signs totalling $4,700 were taken out in June and since January there have been 19 sign permits issued for $19,658.

Although there were no single-family residential permits issued in June, since January there have been 95 such permits issued for $2,025,904, a record for recent years in that category.

For the first six months permits for multiples have reached $3.1 million; commercial buildings $2.5 million and industrial buildings $980,580.

The six-month total this year compares favorably with 1971 when the 12-month building permit record was set. At the end of six months in 1971 there had been $10.7 million in permits issued.

In the annual fiscal year report of the building department, Byron showed that the total valuation for all permits was $16,237,086.

The report reveals that for the fiscal year 1972-73, there had been 201 permits for single family residences for $4.4 million; 38 apartment complexes with 616 units for $6.3 million; 14 commercial buildings totalling $3.1 million and 11 industrial buildings for $1.2. All other permits totalled $1.2 million.

COUNCIL EXPENDS $16,000

First revenue-sharing funds go for paramedic program

Local history was made on Monday night when the City Council authorized the expenditure of $16,000 for the paramedic program, the first allocation from the $400,000 in federal revenue-sharing funds that the city will receive.

In addition, the City Council took the first action in implementing other goals that have been recommended by the Citizens Advisory Goals Committee. The paramedic program, which will be developed by the Fire Department, had the highest priority of any of the goals in the committee's report.

Mrs. Peggy Pack, chairman of one of the sub-committees of the goals unit, at Monday's meeting urged the Council to allocate the funds for the program.

The allocation was made at a public hearing that had been called according to federal regulations.

Speaking for the program also was Fire Chief Gene Borden who explained that special training would start on August 13. Before the action was taken, it was indicated that the paramedic program would probably be part of the mutual aid agreements with Central Fire and San Jose, and would not necessarily be confined to the city limits.

In another goals action, the councilmen indicated that they were ready to move for the acquisition of a 1.8 acre parcel adjacent to Rincon Park from revenue-sharing funds and would hold a hearing on August 13 for the allocation. An official appraisal has been made and submitted for the property, City Manager Bob Stephens reported.

The expansion of the park area was another high priority goal of the committee.

This Wednesday, the City Council will meet in a study session with the Parks and Recreation Commission and on the agenda will be discussion of a recreation coordinator and the annual budget for a recreation program, also in the goals report.

On Monday, July 16, the Council will meet with the Downtown Redevelopment Committee and other interested citizens to discuss the $2 million north and south loop projects and the relocation of the downtown fire station. These are also in the recommended goals program.

Five recommendations were adopted in total and referred to the city commissions:

These included: 1. Review and update zoning ordinance and land use plan; 2) Establish city-wide traffic plan; 3) Plan for training of senior citizens in baby-sitting program with fire department; 4) Up-date baby-sitter listings through fire department, and 5) Develop a "friends of the library" committee and consider the feasibility of an appropriate community event.

A number of other recommendations were referred to the appropriate city advisory commission and will come back to the City Council.

CYPRESS-SHERMAN OAKS-MOORPARK

Trustees approve plans for Early Childhood Education at three schools

Elementary school trustees gave the OK to plans for the Early Childhood Education program developed by Moorpark, Sherman Oaks and Cypress schools at the meeting held last Thursday evening at the district office.

Total funds requested for the program from the State Board of Education, are $359,927. Under the present program guidelines the Campbell Union (elementary) School District will provide matching in-kind services to any state and federal moneys received.

FUNDING

Federal funding is being sought through the ESEA, Title I, and Title II programs. On the state levels requests for funding are through the Miller-Unruh Reading and the Early Childhood Education programs.

According to Ruth Launer, Director of Instruction, the original application for 1973-74 funding has been approved by the State Department of Education as well as the State Board of Education. She told trustees that programs must receive district school board approval before funds for the individual schools will be released from Sacramento. Trustees unanimously granted that approval.

In a 60-page report presented to trustees, the individual schools outlined their need assessment, program goals and objectives, total direct and district costs and program description.

MOORPARK

Moorpark School plans a three-year program which will move the primary classrooms toward totally individualized mathematics and language arts programs.

In addition, classroom organization will see each regular primary classroom teacher aided by a trained, three-hour paid aide and supported by a Miller-Unruh Reading Specialist, a part-time counselor, a two-day Language-Speech Therapist and volunteer aides from the community.

A professional library and resource center will be established at the school and parent participation and education is stressed. Each class will contribute a bi-weekly newsletter of current school and classroom activities on a rotating basis.

CYPRESS

At Cypress School individualized programs in reading and math are planned over the next three years. The reading program will be supplemented by the assistance of the resource teacher and/or a trained bilingual aide. Instruction in English as a second language and bilingual assistance will be provided as needed.

Specialist aides will also be trained in the areas of science, social science, music, physical education and art.

Plans call for each primary classroom to be supported by a three-hour para-professional, the services of a reading specialist resource teacher, a two-day language therapist, upper grade tutors and possible student work-study aides, in addition to the regular classroom teacher.

Two listening-learning centers will be maintained in each primary classroom and the adult-pupil ratio of the Kindergarten will be lowered by staggered arrival-departure time.

Parent education and participation are also planned and activities include workshops and newsletters in addition to encouraging classroom visitations.

SHERMAN OAKS

Plans at Sherman Oaks School calls for a progressive movement toward a totally individualized program over the next three years. Reading instruction will be language based and instruction in English as a second language and bilingual assistance will be provided as needed.

Progress in human understanding and ethnic studies will be developed. Beginning with a United Nations study in October, a different ethnic group will receive school-wide attention each month.

A multi-media resource center attached to the library will be developed as a supplement to the instructional program.

Regularly scheduled School Advisory Council meetings, open to all parents, are planned for this fall. Initial plans also call for parent workdays to provide additional play yard equipment for the school.

In lieu of report cards, three way conferencing (student-parent-teacher) will be scheduled at a minimum of two per year for each student.

HEALTH

The three schools are similar to outlining the health program needs which they plan to meet.

Vision and hearing screening will be done with referrals and appropriate follow-up, when necessary, by the school nurse. "Brush-in" fluoridation programs will be provided and safety instruction will be given each child as part of classroom curriculum. Parents will be encouraged to have their entering Kindergarten student examined by a physician of their choice.

Brightest building in town

by Pat Safford

The building rapidly nearing completion on Leigh Avenue in Campbell casts a sharp glare on the windows of passing motorists in the afternoon sun. No conventional home of wood or stucco, this new structure features the all-steel frame of the new Rusco Building System.

Planned Investment and Properties, Inc. are the builders for owner Erwin Weyhe. Completion is expected by July 19...that is if the dozens of "sidewalk superintendents" give workmen a chance to get on with their work.

"We've had over 150 people trooping through here to take a look," said Al Alfinito, one of the two builders working on the home, "we've got to get our work done."

Work began on the three bedroom, 1,800 square foot, home June 21. The home will also feature a family room and two fireplaces, according to Don Larson, co-builder.

The San Jose based building firm, a subsidiary of Dollar Home Loan, recently completed homes in Watsonville, Clear Lake and Lake Tahoe. The Leigh Avenue structure will be the first in Santa Clara County.

Larson outlined some of the advantages of using the new building system over conventional home construction:

Heating loss is reduced from 30 to 50 percent, according to Larson. "This leaves the home warmer in the winter and cooler in the summer."

The noise factor is cut by some 20 to 40 percent, he continued, and since the building is non-combustible, fire insurance rates can be reduced by some 40 percent.

In another part of the United States an apartment building, constructed with this new system, suffered a blaze in one of the units. According to the builder, all of the furnishings burned and the heat was so intense that door knobs melted, yet structural damage was such that only two of the (steel) panels had to be replaced.

These homes can withstand earthquakes of up to 8.5 on the Richter Scale, according to Larson. He said that Federal Housing Authority personnel conducted the testing to ascertain these figures. "A conventional building would collapse at a magnitude of 3.5," Larson continued. "If anyone's interested," Larson laughed, "the buildings are also bulletproof."

Cost of materials for a single-family structure average about $6,600, Larson explained. When a garage is added to the basic structure, materials cost rise to about $8,000.

To save costs a property owner can sub-contract the foundation, plumbing and electrical work and complete the rest himself at a cost of between $10 and $12 per square foot. According to Larson, this is about 50 percent less than the average contractor's bid.

The pamphlet put out by Rusco gives more information about the new building concept: Using one basic panel for walls and roof, it reads, one truck can deliver the material for two or three complete houses to the site. Apartments, motels and commercial buildings can also be constructed using the new building method.

Business is booming for the two builders since they received the exclusive franchise from Rusco on April 1. Many more buildings will go up throughout the area....if they can just get enough uninterrupted work-time.

NO MORE GLASS

West Valley Progressive Senior Center will not be accepting any more glass or recycling at their Rincon Avenue collection station.

According to spokesmen for the group, among problems which caused the change was that of obtaining trucks to haul away the thousand-pound loads of broken glass.

"WILDCAT" THEFT

Fireworks valued at over $1,500 were stolen from a truck trailer parked in the Hamilton Plaza Shopping Center, it was reported last week.

Truck owner Harvey H. Green of San Jose discovered the theft of the "Wildcat" fireworks on the morning of July 4.

A "REEL" MOVIE FAN

Reported stolen from the Winchester Drive-In last Saturday were two 6,000-foot reels of 35 mm film.

Projectionist Richard F. Margan, Jr., discovered the theft from the 535 Westchester Blvd. movie when he opened up last weekend.

The reels were of the current run, "Super Fly, T.N.T."

There is at least one problem for the person or persons responsible, however: The film is not suitable for regular projectors and is for commercial use only.

Application deadline nears at university

Most of the 80 undergraduate fields of study at California State University, San Jose, are still accepting students for the fall semester. Admission applications are due August 1.

Clyde Brewer, director of admissions and records, projects a fall enrollment of about 28,000.

The only fields of study closed to new freshmen are criminal justice, nursing, occupational therapy and radio-TV broadcasting.

Lower division transfer students will find only seven majors closed to them: aeronautics, art, criminal justice, environmental studies, graphic design, interior design and nursing.

Only five fields of study are closed to upper division students: criminal justice, environmental studies, graphic design, interior design and nursing.

Applications are available from the University's Admissions Office, located on the corner of Fourth and San Fernando Streets. For more information, call 277-3266.

Psychiatrist-poet speaks on poetry therapy tonight

West Valley College's community services office is presenting a lecture on "I Killed a Poet," this evening, July 11, at 8 p.m. at the Saratoga campus.

Dr. Sidney Sharman, author of "Ten Commandments and the Psychiatrist" and "An Army of People" will deliver this lecture on poetry therapy. Dr. Sharman is a poet and consultant to London University and to the Ministry of Health and Social Security in England.

A national Association for Poetry Therapy was formed several years ago with the idea that poetry could greatly help the emotionally disturbed persons. The first world conference on this new type of therapy was held in April of this year.

Dr. Sharman, a veteran of 20 years of private psychiatric practice, will deliver the address in SET 10, located in the engineering-technology building on the Saratoga campus, 14000 Fruitvale Ave.

There will be no admission charge.

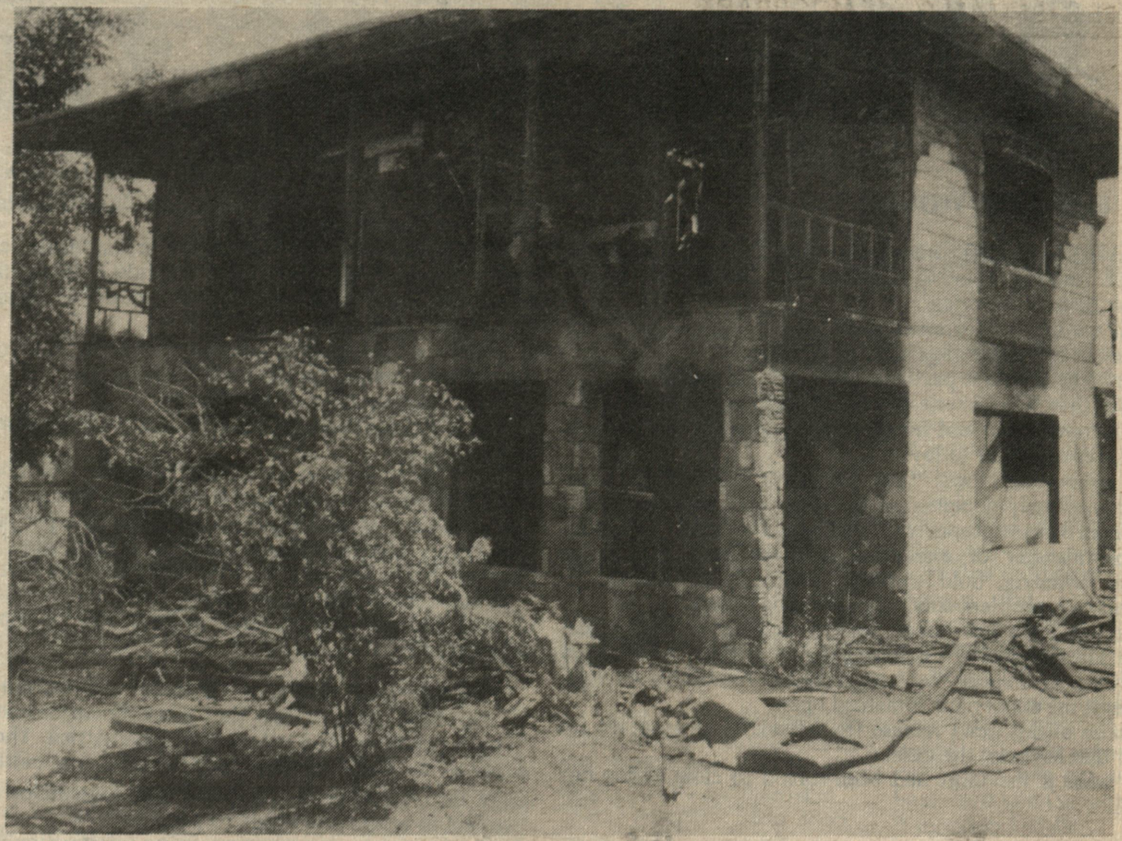
New textbooks get approval

Directors of the West Valley Japanese Language School announced recently that a new language textbook series has been selected for use this fall at the Saratoga campus.

"Learn Japanese," a series of language textbooks, was originally developed in Hawaii and is presently being used in the public school system there.

The local school has been conducting classes in the oriental language for eight years, the past two at West Valley College.

Applications for fall enrollment are being accepted by the school and interested persons should contact them at P. O. Box 952, Campbell, Ca. 95008.



Fire was set

The spectacular blaze which gutted the home at 2060 S. Bascom Avenue, last Thursday night was deliberately set, according to Bob Egan, deputy fire marshall for Santa Clara County. According to Egan, the fire was spotted by Sheriff's deputy Steve Moreno on routine patrol at 10:40 p.m. Thursday night. A total of six fire engines, one ladder truck, two fire marshall's cars and a rescue squad truck responded to the scene and traffic was detoured along a one block stretch of Bascom Avenue during the height of the blaze. Although vacant for some time, investigators found evidence that the building was being occupied by juveniles. According to Egan the blaze was started on the lower level of the two-story structure near the staircase. "There is no indication of any possible accidental cause," Egan reported. No suspects have been found and anyone spotting persons in or around the building about 10:30 p.m. last Thursday are urged to contact the county fire marshall's office.

College trustees authorize architectural design contract

West Valley College District's Mission College in Santa Clara will soon have a master plan for construction.

Thursday evening trustees of the district authorized a contract with the architectural firm of Reid and Tarics Associates of San Francisco to design Mission College.

This firm will proceed with an architectural master plan including size and placement of buildings, orientation of campus parking and traffic circulation, utility master planning and overall architectural considerations.

The district is currently proceeding to request state construction funds for the utilities and site development project and for construction of the first academic building project during the 1974-75 school year.

In other action Thursday evening the board:

Accepted a gift of books from Maj. William Ricken of the San Jose Corps of the Salvation Army. The books include a five volume set of the History of the Salvation Army and several other books regarding special Salvation Army work and the development of work in the United States. This week marks the 108th birthday of the Salvation Army.

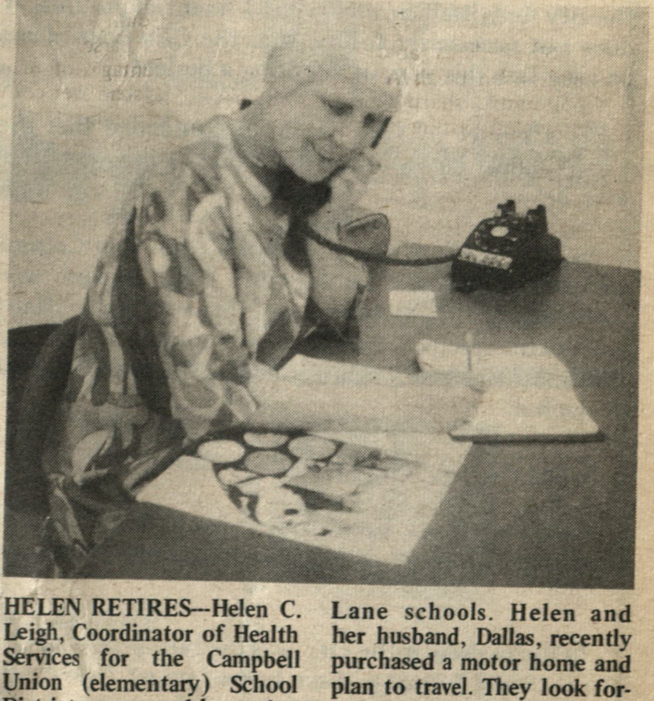
Considered a suggested board policy on taping and video taping governing board meetings. The suggested policy will now go to the County Counsel for legal review before being brought back to the board for final approval.

Approved a 6.5 per cent increase in salary for the superintendent. This is in line with the 6.5 per cent across the board salary increase granted in June by the board for certificated and classified employees.

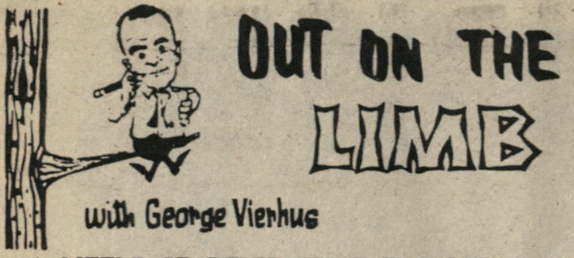
Recognized three employee associations on campus, in compliance with board policy. They included the college chapter of the Faculty Association of California Community Colleges, the college chapter of the California Teachers Association (Chapter 760), and the college chapter of the California School Employees Association (Chapter 534).

Appointed one new member and reappointed the other 20 members to the college's Citizens Advisory Committee for two year terms which expire June 30, 1975.

PASSING THE GAVEL--Mrs. Mildred Wharton, outgoing chairman of West Valley College's governing board, hands the gavel to Foster Lopes, who was elected by fellow trustees Thursday evening to serve as the 1973-74 board chairman. Elected with Lopes were Robert W. Brydon (standing left), vice-chairman and Donald E. Lindstrom, clerk.



HELEN RETIRES--Helen C. Leigh, Coordinator of Health Services for the Campbell Union (elementary) School District announced her retirement recently. For 18 years Helen has been with the local district, since she first served as school nurse for the San Tomas, Monroe and Cherry Lane schools. Helen and her husband, Dallas, recently purchased a motor home and plan to travel. They look forward to spending more time visiting their son, daughter-in-law and 16-month-old grandson in Rapid City, South Dakota.



OUT ON THE LIMB

with George Vierhus

A LITTLE STARTLED--THAT WAS OUR REACTION when we read the opening sentence of a recent news release from the Bank of America.

Then we sort of surreptitiously looked around our office and plant to see how things were shaping up.

Here is the way that particular news release started out:

"More than 90 per cent of business failures are due to managerial incompetence and inexperience, according to a Bank of America report issued today."

The release continued: "The success or failure of any small business obviously depends on the top man", says the bank's latest Small Business Reporter, "Management Pitfalls". Whether operator, manager or executive, he must be a virtuoso at practical dreaming, bold thinking, determined planning, decision making, problem solving and leading others."

Although there have been some touch-and-go fiscal situations at The Campbell Press during the years that we have been at the helm, so to speak, we have remained reasonably solvent.

At least the doors have remained open.

Because of this news release from Bank of America, we are pleased that has been the case.

But what if the joint had been forced to close during our tenure?

THE BLAME FOR CLOSING THE DOORS (IN 90% OF the cases) would have been due to "managerial incompetence and inexperience" according to the BofA report.

That's not a very nice thought for the day.

Of course, there may be some question in some people's minds as to just who "runs The Press". And rightly so, for we are not exactly sure ourself.

However, ostensibly, or outwardly anyway, that honor(?) is forced on us.

In theory, at least, if not in practice.

By the same token, we are "forced" to take a bow for our success, to quote from that same BofA report describing the top man:

"...he must be a virtuoso at practical dreaming, bold thinking determined planning, decision making, problem solving and leading others"...

Shucks, we didn't know we had it in us.

ANOTHER BANK (CROCKER) SENT US A NEWS RElease recently that contained vital(?) information that we just know you have long awaited:

"While demand for watermelons in California reached its highest level during the Fourth of July holiday, the state's watermelon crop itself will not peak for several weeks, according to Crocker Bank."

We are a little prejudiced inasmuch as we have never considered watermelons among our favorite foods.

So this watermelon bit left us cold.

But there are many, of course, who rate watermelons extremely high.

To be fair to them we should add that the news release from Crocker Bank points out that California is one of the nation's top producers, accounting for more than nine per cent of the U.S. crop. The melons are raised on 12,000 acres chiefly in Imperial, Kern, San Joaquin, Riverside and Stanislaus.

Crocker Bank reports that most of the state's 120,000 tons of watermelon, valued at $6.2 million, will be consumed in early summer.

And here is another juicy morsel of information contained in that bank news release that possibly might interest you: "The watermelon is a native to typical Africa. The fruit was depicted by early Egyptian artists, indicating cultivation for more than 4,000 years. The cultivated watermelon may reach two feet in length and weigh 50 pounds."

One never knows where tantalizing tidbits of enlightenment are to be found.

For example, would you have expected to learn about watermelons from a bank?

Especially in this urbanized sprawl in which we live where the vines have a tough time coming up through the black-top.

OUT-ON-THE-LIMB WAS MOVED TO THE INSIDE pages (generally page 6) when The Press changed its format from standard size to tabloid.

For many years this column graced the left-hand column on the front page and then was "jumped" to page 2, which was the editorial page in the old set-up.

Now out-on-the-limb and an editorial fill one entire page (tabloid size).

As you know, when the format was changed, we asked our readers to let us know if they liked or disliked the new motif.

In addition to going the tabloid route (a tab page is just half the size of a standard page), the advertising appears in a separate section (called "The Merchandiser"), and the news stories in another.

The paid subscribers of "The Campbell Press" get both the news section and the "Merchandiser".

To give the advertiser a better break, the coverage of the "Merchandiser" has been doubled.

There was a good response from the readers of The Press and a vast majority of those who called or wrote felt the new format was an improvement.

There were some dissenters, of course.

But, surprisingly, a number of those who objected at first to the change, notified the office several weeks later that they had changed their minds.

Now they like it.

A few of the so-called "constant readers" have offered some constructive criticisms and, in some cases, we have made plans to adopt or adapt their ideas.

As you know, the new format calls for a distinctive photograph to dominate the front page with the main news on the first two inside pages.

Those of you, by the way, who have ideas for a front page picture, let us know.

Or, if you want, send in a photo.

This is YOUR paper, you know.

-0-

Some "constants," while reporting that they like the new model, complained about the new location of this column.

They have given our ego a boost (if that was necessary) by reporting that they disliked "hunting for it." They had grown accustomed to it appearing on the front page and read it first.

Even the index on the front page reporting the page on which it appeared, did not appease 'em.

Why couldn't ,,out-on-the-limb" start on the front page, at least? they wanted to know.

Another "constant" suggested that "out-on-the-limb" should be anchored on the back page each issue and could be separated from the editorial.

Quite frankly in a perverse way, we thrived on those criticisms about the placement of this column. And we just may do some experimenting.

So you "constants" don't get too entrenched with the present spot.

It may change.

THREE FORMER MAYORS WERE IN ATTENDANCE and spoke at a recent Planning Commission meeting, which must be some sort of a record. They were all there for different purposes.

None of the former mayors, Dick Morton, Charlie Rose and Bill Smeed, are members of the present City Council. In fact, neither Dick nor Charlie presently live within the city limits.

Dick and Charlie, who are still property owners in town, were present to object to proposed zoning changes affecting their respective properties.

Smeed, an attorney, was representing a client and was seeking a continuance which he obtained from the commission.

But neither Morton nor Rose were able to swing the planning commissioners their way.

But don't try to read anything into that.

Because nothing was intended.

AT THAT SAME PLANNING COMMISSION MEETING, in a letter from Michael Traugott, who last January took over the management and ownership of the "Jean Drive Apartments," the request was made that the street name be changed from "Jean Drive" to "Sharmon Palms Lane."

Traugott explained that the apartments had been renamed "Sharmon Palms Apartments."

The Planning Commission unanimously and with little discussion recommended to the City Council that the street name be changed as requested.

The news story did not expand on the situation, simply stating that "Jean Drive" and all its connotations with respect to housing in Campbell will be only a memory, if the new Jean Drive apartments owner, had his way.

Quite a few people did not know what was meant by the "connotations."

Excerpts from Traugott's letter described it: ..."Upon our takeover, Jean Drive was a complete disaster area. The property was badly let go, and many of the tenants were undesirable. For the past months we have been building a new image for Jean Drive, and are in the process of undergoing an extensive remodeling program which, when completed, will bring about a total change to Jean Drive..." "We still however have one major setback, that being the reputation and stigma constantly being associated with the name 'Jean Drive'. We are forever faced with inquirers who do not wish to live on a street with Jean Drive's now infamous reputation..."

Now you know.....

Editorial

Disturbing attitude

The Campbell Press in recent weeks has emphasized the current healthy fiscal position of the City of Campbell.

We have pointed out that this city is probably in a better financial condition than at any time in its 21 years of existence.

We also have suggested, however, that, just because the city finds itself in such a good financial position, it does not necessarily follow that the City Council has an easy task this year in adopting a budget.

As a matter of fact, we have contended that the City Council has a more difficult job this year than ever before.

In the past, on many occasions, the City Council merely had to point to the city's bank account, as it were, and cut off spending, and that was that. Many worthwhile projects had to be eliminated or deferred because there just wasn't enough money on hand or projected.

This year the picture is entirely different.

The city's bank balance is in good shape and the problem will be what projects take precedence over others.

In the past when the city was operating more or less on what was termed a "bare bones budget," advocates of certain projects recognized that the money wasn't there, so why push it?

But that is not the case this time.

"Pressure groups" made up of interested citizens will campaign for certain projects and the Council will have to decide which ones will be undertaken.

Obviously, there will be many projects that will not win City Council approval.

We have confidence in the City Council. We are convinced that good judgment will be used when the final decisions are made.

We think that it is important to remember that, although a preliminary operating budget was approved before the start of the new fiscal year, it will not be until August before the final budget is adopted and the tax rate is established.

The next six week period is a very crucial time in this city's current fiscal history.

It will be during this time that discussions will be held and pro and con arguments will be presented on various budget items.

The City Council will have to decide how ambitious a civic improvement program is desired and what the taxpayers are willing to pay.

We think it first must be determined what is the city's basic tax rate. We have submitted that the 1972-73 rate was not $1.30 per $100 assessed valuation because 12-cents of that amount was for a special purpose (city hall). Others claim that the base rate is $1.07.

But the base rate should first be determined and, if more funds are needed for various programs that are desired, it should be specified what the additional taxes are for.

Factory starts remodeling for October opening

The site of what was once reported to be the largest fruit drying plant in the world is now the six acre "Factory" which is developing at the south end of Central Avenue.

After a delay while developers Richard Millen and William McLaughlin met rezoning requirements, construction officially began this week at the former Sunsweet drying plant, whose sign now proclaims it "The Factory."

Transformation of the huge old brick and redwood facility into a walking mall surrounded by 90,000 feet of shopping, dining and entertainment follows the successful example of Ghirardelli Square, first of the West Coast shopping complexes which preserved an important piece of historic architecture while offering the latest twentieth century shopping experience.

Tenants are already on the roster for the Factory's opening in October. Work was begun this week converting the distinctive 1892 brick fruit warehouse that in its earliest days served the Campbell Fruit Growers Union, later The George E. Hyde Company canning operation--forerunners of Sunsweet ownership.

Along with its equally handsome brick neighbors this will house the Rundbergs' shop "The Sandalmaker," "The Cachepot" plant shop, Steve Sach's gourmet delicatessen "Oscar's," and "Wild and Wooly" a tapestry-weaving studio. The upper floors will be filled by an English pub and dinner restaurant imaginatively joined by a redwood and glass covered bridge walkway.

Adjoining the fruit warehouse, Will Book's Antique Shop will be a neighbor of a large double theatre featuring vintage and classic films. Across the way a bazaar of small shops is under way.

Felice's Winery and a German beer garden just begin to round out the picture for this unique six acre square that can't help but put new life back into Old Campbell when it opens in October.

Bringing up fido

By Sally Howe

Fido's got the summer doldrums.

He was delighted when school vacation first started, because it meant that there were lots more things going on in his neighborhood. He got to go to the park and watch the baseball games, play in the water on hot days and have lots more company.

Summer's settled in a little bit now and Fido is seeing things he doesn't really approve of---like the folks down the street going off for three days and leaving their two cats and dog out in the backyard with "plenty of food and water."

The cats made out fine, for when their food got so dusty and dry they couldn't stand it, they just hopped the fence to the back street and stole some of the food left for the poodle there. The dog's fate was a little different.

For one thing, the indignity of being left without the solace of a human voice was almost too much to bear, so at 2 a.m. the first night, he vented his anger on the moon.

That set up a little bit of a stir and two dogs down the street, unaccustomed to hearing him, decided to tear furiously back and forth along the fence, their activity causing the two-month-old baby in the adjacent house to wake up.

Their cries further upset the lonely pup who on hearing a car turn the corner, managed to run through his water dish and splash out most of the contents.

When the neighborhood had finally quieted down, there was considerable talk of banning the dog population altogether, something which was completely understandable.

When Fido's folks decided to check on their neighbor's house, two days later, they found the neighbor dog in a dehydrated condition (the weather had been unexpectedly in the 90's) without food or water. (The ants had eaten what little food had not stuck to his pan.)

Why? Because some inconsiderate person didn't realize that owning pets also means taking care of them.

If you must leave your pet at home, be absolutely sure that some reliable person (not a 7-year-old youngster) is checking on it at least TWO times daily and that they are not left loose to disturb the neighborhood.

Better yet, board them in a reliable boarding kennel.

"Voice writer" tested in municipal courtroom proceedings

TRIAL PERIOD --- Cathrine Costello demonstrates new court reporting technique now being tried out on a five-week basis in San Jose Municipal Court, in Judge Robert Beresford's Department No. 8. Miss Costello is dictating a verbatim account of the court proceedings into a tape recorder during the actual court session.

The National Center for State Courts is displaying a new technique for court reporting called the "Multi-Track Voice Writer" at the San Jose Municipal Court on an experimental basis.

The state court center is headed by California Supreme Court Justice Louis H. Burke.

Officials of the center believe the new system will help reduce the costs of present court reporting methods, which chiefly use stenotyping. Instead, a specially trained court reporter dictates the court proceedings verbatim into a tape recorder as a trial or hearing progresses.

The oral transcript is later typed as needed.

While the voice writer operator is dictating the proceedings the actual voices of the judge, attorneys and other courtroom participants are recorded on a "second track" of the equipment as a double check.

BOTH USED

Since this method has not yet been approved for California courts a regular court reporter with stenotyping equipment is also being used.

Municipal Judge Robert Beresford learned about the "voice writer" technique from the National Center for State Courts. He is a member of the center's National Advisory Council as a representative of the National Conference of Special Courts.

At the Request of J. Michael Greenwood, an official of the center, arrangements were made for a trained "voice writer" to work in Judge Beresford's courtroom for five weeks.

On the success of the experiment, the judge commented, "So far it has worked very well. The voice writer has had no trouble keeping up with the proceedings and maintaining the customary standards of accuracy."

Demonstrations of the technique for judges, attorneys and the news media were arranged Wednesday morning in the Palo Alto branch of Superior Court and Wednesday afternoon at the San Jose Municipal Court.

TRIAL RUN

During the five-weeks trial run the equipment is being operated by Cathrine Costello. She is a 20-year-old former Belmont resident. Her family moved to Washington, D.C., when her father, James Costello, became an official at the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

She learned of the new transcription technique and was selected for a 10-week training program offered by the national court center. She was part of a class of 15 trainees in Washington, D.C. Another class of six trained in Atlanta, Ga.

During her training, she reached transcription speeds of 260 words per minute.

The national center is paying Miss Costello's salary during her five-week stay at Municipal Court. After that she is going to a job in Oregon, where the system has been officially approved for courtroom use.

New premarital blood tests can take up to a week

Brides-to-be should be aware that several days may be required to obtain the results of premarital tests for rubella (German measles), the state's top health administrator said recently.

"Couples should take that into consideration when deciding on a wedding date." Dr. Earl Brian, State Health and Welfare Agency secretary, said.

The elapsed time, from drawing the blood to receiving the results in the doctor's office can vary from 24 hours to a week, Brian said.

Seventeen counties throughout the state are prepared to perform the tests now and to complete marriage health certificates. Santa Clara is among these counties.

Antibody testing for rubella was required by 1972 legislation, Brian said, in order to inform women about to be married whether they are at risk of contracting the virus disease which can cause fetal abnormalities during pregnancy.

"Like the premarital syphilis test, the purpose is to protect future generations from physical disabilities that can be prevented," he said.

West Valley Ballet renamed San Jose Dance Theatre

The West Valley Ballet Company has been renamed San Jose Dance Theatre, Paul Curtis, director, announced today.

The change, approved by the Registry of Charitable Trusts, California Department of State, was requested by the Board of Directors this spring in the belief it would better reflect the present complexion of the company, Curtis said.

"Our dancers are from the entire metropolitan San Jose Area," he said "not just from the West Valley Area. In making extensive revisions in company by-laws the new Board felt the company's new name would be in keeping with its current goals."

The West Valley Ballet Company received its franchise as a non-profit organization in 1968, Curtis explained, and became a member of the Pacific Regional Ballet Association and the National Association of Regional Ballets two years later.

Dancers are selected for membership, associate membership and apprenticeships during yearly auditions which are open to all San Jose metropolitan area dance students 13 and over.

The company is presently in rehearsal for a Summer Ballet "Pops" concert August 3 at the San Jose Civic Auditorium which will feature the premiere of a full-length ballet based on the legend of Sarah Winchester, builder of the Winchester House.

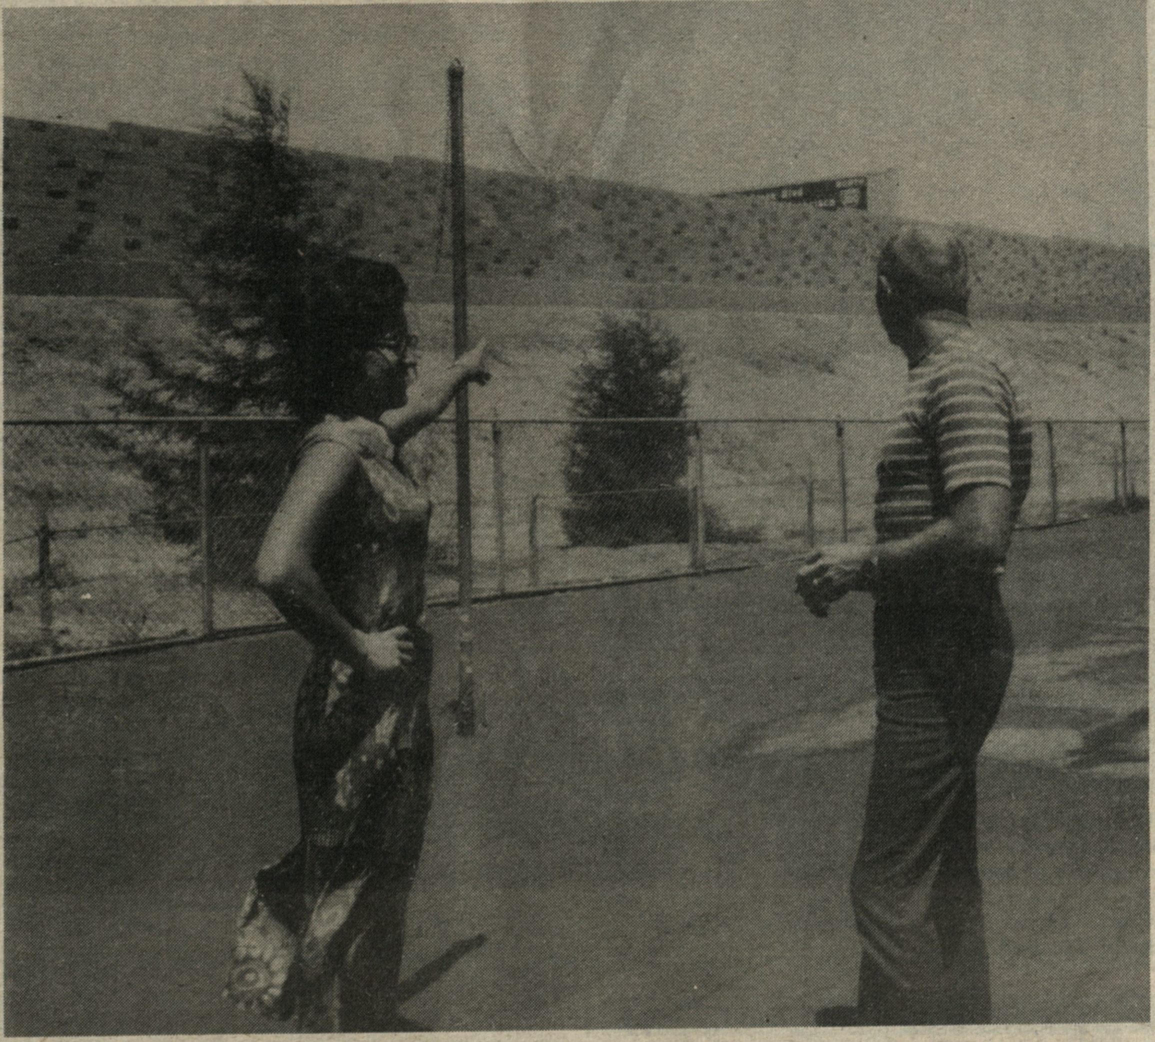
A wall is a wall is a . . .



Katie Carsrud points out the concrete wall which shelters Moorpark School from some of the traffic noises along Highway 17, to fellow teacher Keith Creighton. Both will be teaching fourth, fifth and sixth grade classes at the school this fall. At the last meeting of Campbell elementary school board, trustee Dr. Richard Mac Quiddy called the eleven foot high edifice, "the ugliest looking wall I've ever seen." Board president Dr. Robert King offered a rebuttal and said since the wall was installed by the State Department of Highways, "noise level has been drastically cut." The concrete block wall, which features roughened blocks set at random patterns, was the first step in improving conditions at the Campbell elementary school. Trustees voted to approve final plans for the Moorpark Noise Abatement program last Thursday. If final agreement is reached with the highway department, plans call for insulating six classrooms and the administration building at the school and installing individual air conditioning systems.

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY
IQ

"while you're saving your lungs, you're also saving a lot of money"

Gene Kelly knows what he's talking about. He was a 3-pack-a-day smoker, until he quit cold, eleven years ago.

"Figure it out," he says. "More than 200,000 cigarettes not smoked. It adds up to a nice, tidy sum. More than that, it adds up to protecting yourself against lung cancer.

"As the National IQ (I QUIT... cigarettes) Chairman of the American Cancer Society, I have two aims: to get people to quit cigarettes and to persuade our young people not to start."

If you're a smoker, join the IQ campaign. Give up cigarettes for good. And good riddance. For helpful tips on quitting, ask your local ACS Unit for our booklet, "If You Want To Give Up Cigarettes."
